INSURANCE AGENTS. LOUISVILLE, May 21.—The delegates to the association adjusting fire insur-ance agencies of the northwest, repance agencies of the northwest, rep-resenting some thirty-eight companies, assembled at the Galt house this morning. The afternoon session was mainly taken up by reports from the committees. The report of the com-mittee on fire patrol and property-sav-ing at fires gave an interesting account of the working of the fire patrol of Chi-cago. At first the patrol had been ordered to follow the reacest stramer, but now matters were reversed, the first steamer being ordered to follow the patrol. The committee was of the opinion that if the patrol was such a success as is believed in large cities it would be valuable in smaller places, and the iterative description to the iterative description in the iterative de Barnes, of the bridesmaids, were the only other persons in nearness to the brids! party on the platform, Mrs. Grant and her two sors standing in expense of a patrol could not be affordto so is standing in expense of a patrol could not be affordshould be made a part of the fire department. In the general conference to-day the atte committee on episcopacy recommended a plan for the support of the families of deceased bishops, allowing bishops a salary and traveling expenses, and giv-ing the committee on episcopacy the authority to determine the amount necessary for the support of their widows and orphans, to be raised in different conferences according to their represen-tation. The report was adopted. The committee on boundaries made a report which lies over one day. It recom-mended that all portions of the State of Indiana, not included in the New Al-bany and Jeffersonville appointments, be transferred to the Illinois conference and a transfer of a portion of Trinity conference to the East Texas conference is also recommended in the report. It also allowed the Missouri conference to change its boundary lines within the next four years if it became necessary. RACE NEWS.

He says that upon arrival of the United States steamer Canandaigua at Samana Bay, on the twentieth of April, he ascertained that her commander, Captain Lowery, had not received authority from the home department for The senate met at one o'clock. After the reading of the journal of yesterday senator Tipton said he arose to move a correction therein. The journal showed that the senate adjourned to meet at one o'clock to-day, but there was no mental to company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the company's standard on the following day; that he had heard the company's standard on the following day in the company's standard on the company standard on tion made of that fact in the record. In the captain announce this intention, view of the fact that the record was already correct, he inferred that the journal clerk was mistaken, and therefore moved a correction, to strike out that portion relative to adjournment.

The chair [Senator Carpenter] said that the journal was correct, and the senator should give in to the correct record. Mr. Tipton—Then I move to correct the journal te read as follows: "Ordered that when the senate adjourn it be to meet at one o'clock to-morrow, on account of the marriage in the family of the President of the United State, which is to be consummated at the hour of eleven o'clock to-morrow morning."

Senator Hamilton—I believe the motion to adjourn over was made yesterday, but no reason was iven by the chair—none whatever.

Senator Hamilin said he did not know by what power the senator from Nebraska [Tipton] proposed to construe the motives of senators in adjourning over.

do, saying his instructions justified forcible interference; that he could, and would, leave a force on land to guard Americans and their property, and, furthermore, that he would go to the capital of San Domingo and bring President 'Gonzales to reason with hot about, if necessary. Captain Lowery offered to land a force at eleven o'clock on the morning of next day (Sunday) and caused great excitement, which increased as the hour of eleven drew nigh, but the captain changed his mind, and made no effort to keep his promise.

Dr. Howe received a letter from Mr. Lowery about the time the troops were promised, in which he excused himself for his inaction, on the ground that it Senator Tipton said that when he came to the capitol this morning he found the house in session. He did not hear the motion to adjourn yesterday, and not finding the senate in session he inferred that something unusual was going on. Now that time was precious, he had come to the conclusion that an adjournment for over two hours must be for an event known to the whole country.

Senator Fenton suggested that in view of the explanation of the senator from just then. This letter aroused in series in which he excused himself for his inaction, on the ground that it was the Lord's day, and be would do no work. The letter contained various questions, to which Dr. Howe responded, giving the required information and urging a forcible attempt at representation. On May 3d, Lowery wrote he had decided to refer the matter to the president of the explanation of the senator from of the explanation of the senator from Maine, and of the chair, the senator from Nebraska withdraw his motion.

Senator Hamilia said as a motion to amendment the journal only expressed the views of the senator from Nevada. Senator Hamilia moved to lay on the table and the motion was agreed to without dissent. vessel leaves the narror they will become objects of governmental prosecution. The company's property was left in care of United States Consular Agent Couard. Dr. Howe said that the progress which the company made was sufficient to prove that the whole of the island would come to the United States. The Haytoms officers to regulate the service in the collection of customs at the various ports in the United States and disposition of flues, penalties and forfeitures incurred under the laws relating to customs at the various were immical to the scheme because they saw in it a thwarting of their hopes, the fact that the United States government incurred under the laws relating to customs. toms.
